Specialty Valves: Decades Of Technical Expertise Provide The Solutions

When your unique application requires a custom solution, count on the engineering, experience and expertise of Milwaukee Valve to develop a solution.

With an extensive product offering of more than 8,000 standard finished valves, Milwaukee Valve can cover the vast majority of your commercial valve needs. Milwaukee Valve focuses on valves, and only valves, every day. But every day, customers also provide us with application challenges to our technical capabilities.

Some solutions are minor modifications that may require only a simple change, such as a different seat material or alternative disk. Other solutions require complete designs to meet your demanding safety needs or harsh application conditions.

Our entire Marine product offering is predicated on this engineering and manufacturing prowess. Milwaukee Valve products have been installed on U.S. Navy warships for more than 50 years—and every platform of U.S. warship and submarine today. From concept and engineering to design and manufacture, our marine valves utilize the best technologies available to meet the Navy's stringent requirements.

Milwaukee Valve's background and reputation in the Commercial, Industrial, and very specialized Marine business should provide confidence to entrust your most difficult applications to our experienced staff.
