

Need Help? Know Who To Call!

Your customers rely on you every day, from tracking orders and pricing, to making change orders and searching for missing items. When facing those problems, call your Milwaukee Valve Customer Service Representative. They are the partner who will help you succeed.

At Milwaukee Valve, we don't use a "call center". We employ Customer Service Representatives trained to know our products and know your business.

Our CSRs work hand-in-hand with your regional manager and your sales rep agency to become an extension of your business. They stay on top of pricing profiles, monitor projects and keep an eye on your order status. When you need valves fast; when you need professional application advice; or when you need specialized support in any way, call your CSR for a solution.

Getting help fast can make a big impact on your bottom line. Customer Service will turn your problems into opportunities for service, revenue growth, and the increased profitability for your business.

For more information, contact your Milwaukee Valve customer service rep today. A complete listing, by territory, can be searched at our website, at www.milwaukeevalve.com/find-sales-rep/.
