

Need Help? Who Can You Call?

Every day, your team faces challenges... from change orders and missing items to complete system shutdowns. Getting help fast can make a big impact on your bottom line. When facing such a problem, give Milwaukee Valve a call. Customer Service is the partner that will help you succeed.

At Milwaukee Valve, Customer Service strives to become an extension of your business, to help you better serve your customers. When you need valves fast; when you need professional application advice; or when you need specialized support in any way, call us for a solution.

Highly trained and skilled at solving a wide variety of challenges, Customer Service operates with the philosophy that customers should never face a problem alone. From Application Engineering, to Product Management, to being steps away from our warehouse and millions in inventory, one call can resolve most issues and get you back on track, without interruption to your business.

Customer Service will turn your problems into opportunities for service, revenue growth, and the increased profitability for your business. If you need a hand, especially when your back's against the wall, call 262-432-2700 for information and assistance.
